

Freedom of Information Request Reference N°: FOI 001274-20

I write in connection with your request for information received by Suffolk and Norfolk Constabularies on 6 April 2020 which you sought access to the following information:

“Please can you tell me, as of April 1st 2020, how many officers currently working within your force have been specifically trained to be first responders to reports of domestic abuse made by the public?”

Response to your Request

The response provided below is correct as of 21 April 2020

Suffolk and Norfolk Constabularies have considered your request for information and the response is below.

Every front-line officer is trained to be a first responder to reports of domestic abuse.

All front line staff have received “DA Matters” training, and this is now on its second phase of training to train officers who are new to the organisation, and to re-train (re-fresh) officers who have previously received the training.

In Norfolk, there is no specific further training other than that received by student officers or the refresher coercive and controlling training package.

In Suffolk, work has previously been undertaken to identify officers who are DA specifically trained and this has identified 561 officers who are specifically DA trained.

The Constabularies are committed to supporting anyone who is a victim of domestic abuse and will work with our partner agencies.

Further information concerning the Constabularies approach to tackling domestic abuse, can be found on their respective websites:
